Reform of the House of Lords Discussed.

The Marquis of Londonderry Thinks That Body Can be Improved—Chamberlain's Scheme—Slurs at American "Trippers," Who, English Merchants Say, Compose the Bulk of Tourists From This Country—Other Matters.

(Copyrighted, 1895, by the A. P.)

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Reform of the house of lords has in the last two days become a topic of principal discussion. While nothing may come of it immediately or in the near future, the vigor with which the subject is being handled in the press and in public addresses indicates that leaven is working which will ultimately give the house of lords at least some semblance of a representative character. The speech of the Marquis of Londonderry at a banquet in Ripon last night in which he admitted that the house of lords is susceptible of improvement and expressed the hope that the unionists would grapple with the question, is heartily welcomed by the unionist press; and appears to confirm the statement published in the Daily Chronicle yesterday morning that the conservative leaders meditate introducing a measure for the reform of the house of lords.

It is suggested, however, that there is a possibility that this is another scheme emanating from the circles dominated by the Right Hon. Jos. Chamberlain with a view to further "dishing" the radicals. The latter, however, would consent to no reform which would leave the House of Lords in existence, with the power of rejecting or modifying bills adopted by the house of commons. It is thought possible, however, that the radicals might be induced to accept as an alternative of abolition some reform measure which would leave the Lords the mere power of referendum to the people regarding any bill which they might decline to accept.

The Daily Telegraph has been interviewing shopkeepers regarding the amount of money that American tourists have spent in England this summer. The merchants say that, while the number of people coming to London from the United States is increasing yearly, the visitors are largely composed of "trippers," who do Europe on $250. It is admitted, however, that hundreds of wealthy Americans spend thousands of pounds in a single shop.

One of these class spent 5,000 pounds storing in a jeweler's store, and a Regent tailor sold 3,000 pounds sterling worth to one customer, including suits, hats and boots. Jewelry seems to have been the chief article purchased. Shopkeepers say that the royal arms exhibited over a shop door is worth a large sum of money in attracting buyers from the United States. One big firm of hatters in Oxford street says that hats labeled "the same as the Prince of Wales wears" sell rapidly during the American season.

According to the Police an upper Bohemia's latest craze is a gorgeous opium den near Park Lane, which is also, the paper says, attracting many of the highest society people, including two young matrons, whose names are household words. It is stated that the Earl of Dufferin will become secretary of state for foreign affairs on the expiration of his term as ambassador at Paris.

The Court Journal draws the attention of parliament to a scandal which has already been dealt with by Emperor William, that the expenses of regimental life in England renders it impossible for any but the wealthy to put their sons into the army. The cavalry, it is asserted, is going to pieces because its officers are drawn from the idle rich, and the infantry is in a fair way to follow unless the regulations are modified so as to enable the sons of poor gentlemen, who are willing to work hard, to enter the service.

Mr. Charles Day Rose, whose name has come into prominence through his challenge to races for the America's Cup, is a first class steamer chaser and names the yacht which he proposes to build after his favorite brood mare, Distant Shore, that was bred by the Queen in 1880. The Duke of York, who is now a captain in the navy, will be promoted to the flag rank in January.

The Prince of Wales is due in London from abroad to-night. He will attend the Leeds festival Tuesday and Wednesday; goes to Deepdene Saturday and to Newmarket during the second October meeting and from thence to Scotland to visit his daughter, the Duchess of Fife, at Mar Lodge. Max Nordau, the author of Degeneration, has been spending a few days in London, where he was feted by English authors.

Gov. O'Ferrall and Gov. Culbertson. RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 28.—Governor Culbertson of Texas, telegraphed to Governor O'Ferrall to-day asking the Virginia law as to prize fights in Virginia. Governor O'Ferrall responded by giving him the statute, and also congratulated him on his course, adding further, that he would endeavor to get the legislature of Virginia to amend the existing law so as to prohibit glove contests in the State.

Come to His Senses at Last.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Acting Comptroller Bowler, after some days' deliberation, has countersigned the warrant issued by order of the Secretary of the Treasury in payment of the draft drawn by ex-Senator Ransom on account of salary as United States minister to Mexico. This action of the acting comptroller seems to dispose of all questions affecting Mr. Ransom's right to receive his salary pending his confirmation by the Senate.

Dunraven Leaves for Home.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 28.—The Valhalla sailed for England to-day with Lord Dunraven on board as the owner's guest.

VICTORIOUS ORIOLES.

Baltimore Will Again Fly the National League Pennant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Although the championship season in this city does not come to an end until Monday, the destination of the pennant of 1895 was decided by the result of this afternoon's contest between the New Yorks and Baltimore. The Orioles won the game and the pennant in the seventh inning on a combination of hits and errors. Jennings really won the game himself, his phenomenal catch of Batton's fly in the eighth inning when two were on bases, in which he completed a double play unassisted, was all that saved the Giants from tying the score, as the hit went on a straight line for center field. The Orioles were loudly cheered as they marched off the field. Darkness put an end to the game. Attendance 8,000.

Chinese Obstructions Continue.

HONG KONG, Sept. 28.—Obstruction of inquiry by foreign consuls into the Ku Ching massacre of August 1 is still being kept up by Chinese officials. Forty men suspected of complicity in the riots have been liberated by the local authorities without the consent of the consuls. Mr. Mansfield, the British consul at Ku Ching, has been insulted by Chinese soldiers. The consuls are considering the advisability of returning to Foo Chow and referring the matter to their respective governments.

THE DURRANT MURDER TRIAL

The Prisoner Apparently Confident of Acquittal.

The Defense Has Opened the Door for the Admission of All the Evidence in the Williams Murder Case, But Will Fight Any Effort of the Prosecution in That Direction.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 28.—An evening paper publishes an interview with Theodore Durrant, in which the prisoner expressed his disgust at the witnesses who had testified for the prosecution. "I wonder the fate of Ananias and Sapphira has not overtaken some of them," he is quoted as saying. "It is strange to me that they have not been struck dead for what they have said against me on the stand." Durrant expresses confidence at his ultimate acquittal.

In the opinion of many members of the local bar the counsel for the defense has opened a door for the admission of all the evidence in the Williams case at the present trial for the murder of Blanche Lamont. During the examination of Sergeant Reynolds and Burke, who were called by the defense, questions were asked concerning a shoe with a brown stain on the sole found in the pastor's study.

The prosecution may claim the right to demonstrate that the stain on the shoe might have resulted from walking around Emanuel Church on the morning the mutilated body of Minnie Williams was found. Evidence could then be put in showing the condition of the room where the murder was committed and the possibility of a person entering it getting blood on the feet. The defense will fight any proposition that has for its object setting before the jury any fact regarding the Williams murder.

The district attorney says he is satisfied he has put in a very strong case and does not like to take the chance of introducing the testimony that may be declared irrelevant by the supreme court. The defense does not seem to rely so much on the alibi now as it did a few days ago and their efforts are now being devoted to an attempt to find flaws in the prosecution. Not one of Durrant's seventy-five class mates will step to the front and say Durrant attended the lecture on April 3rd.

If he was there every member of the class would know it and dozens would appear and tell of many incidents that happened during the lecture, whereby the presence of the accused was impressed on their minds. The simple fact that nobody recollects his presence is proof positive to the prosecuting attorney that he was absent.

If General Dickenson fails to put the students on the stand Mr. Barnes will call them in rebuttal, and although their testimony to the effect that they do not know whether or not the defendant was at the lecture will be negative in character, it will thoroughly dissipate from the minds of the jury any impression that the introduction of the roll-call might have.

In rebuttal the district attorney will attack the roll book and will, by a great many witnesses, show the careless way in which the record of attendance at the college was kept. It will be shown that hardly a student has at some time or another had the roll falsified by his class-mates answering for him.

Minister Denby Heard From.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—United States Minister Denby cabled the State Department to-day from Peking as follows: "Yamen have telegraphed authorities of Chihli, Shansi and Shensi to appoint an officer to escort commission. Ed et will issue in a few days punishing officials and degrading viceroy. Will telegraph it." This message refers to the independent American committee which has been formed to investigate the Cheng Tu missionary riots. The edicts to which reference is made is supposed to be about to issue as the result of the French investigation of the Cheng Tu affair, and the viceroy concerned is probably Liu. It is expected that our commission headed by United States Consul Reade will be on the road from Tien Tsin to Cheng Tu in a few days.

Two Races Next Year.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Chairman James D. Smith, of the American cup committee, has made the following statement: "I have been often misquoted during the recent discussion of the Danavon question, but for this much I will be responsible. Within the last few days Lord Danavon said to me, 'Commodore Smith, what will be the chance of having it accepted if I should present another challenge for the American cup?' I answered that it was my belief that such a challenge would be considered, but the race cannot be called until after that between the American yacht and the 'Distant Shore.' I also expressed the hope that such a challenge would be presented and then we could have two races next year."

John L. as the Prize Fight Referee.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The Tribune prints interviews with a hundred or more devotees of sport in various parts of the country regarding the fitness and propriety of having John L. Sullivan referee the fight between Corbett and Fitzsimmons. In all the answers there is not a word against the ex-champion's fitness for the position and with very few exceptions those interviewed are enthusiastic on the subject of having him for the referee.

Attempt to Assassinate Count Ito.

YOKOHAMA, Sept. 28.—An attempt was made to-day on the life of Marquis Ito, prime minister and president of the council of Japan. The would-be assassin, who is a member of the anti-foreign league, was arrested.

THE United States Government reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

HARRISON NOT A CANDIDATE.

Col. New, the Ex-President's Right-Hand, Says the General Does Not Desire to Run.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 28.—Col. John C. New, who managed Ex-President Harrison's campaign for nomination for the Presidency, and was consul general of the United States at London, during the Harrison administration, in an interview with The Associated Press to-day said: "General Harrison does not desire to run for the Presidency and is in no sense a candidate, and the stories that he has withdrawn in the interests of any one are without foundation in fact. Were his advice solicited he would select neither Mr. McKinley nor Mr. Reed as the Republican candidate for President."

Col. New declined to state whom General Harrison would prefer as a candidate.

Colonel New was asked if what he had said relative to General Harrison on the Presidency was by authority and said: "Conversation yesterday about the reports and stories published in newspapers purporting to say that some friends of General Harrison were making combinations with friends of Mr. McKinley or Mr. Reed, etc., as to the canvass in 1896, a good many items of that character appearing lately, I said, upon my own authority and not in any way claiming to speak for or to represent General Harrison that all such stories were false; that he was not seeking the nomination for President and that he would enter into no combination with Mr. McKinley, Mr. Reed, or anyone else. This was my opinion, given only as such. A man who speaks so well for himself as does General Harrison needs no interpreter, and I am not posing as such."

McKinley Has Nothing to Say.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Governor McKinley, after reading carefully the Associated Press telegram, carrying Colonel New's interview and dwelling especially upon that part of it which said that General Harrison would favor neither McKinley nor Reed as the candidate, the governor said: "I do not think it is necessary, nor do I believe it would be proper, for me to talk for publication about this. I simply have nothing to say."

CHARGED WITH INSUBORDINATION.

Major Armes Arrested by Order of General Schofield and Released.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Major Armes, who was arrested last evening upon the order of General Schofield, acting secretary of war, charged with insubordination, was brought before Justice Bradley this afternoon under habeas corpus proceedings and released on his personal recognizance to appear before him next Saturday morning. The trouble between Gen. Schofield and Major Armes is of long standing and culminated yesterday in Major Armes preparing an objectionable letter criticizing Gen. Schofield's conduct toward Armes. Armes presented the letter to Gen. Schofield while the latter was acting secretary of war, and the general at once ordered his arrest by a military guard for insubordination.

General Schofield said to-day he regretted exceedingly having been forced to take the action he did, but, being Acting Secretary of War at the time, he felt obliged to order his arrest solely in the interest of military discipline and without regard to personal considerations. If he had not been acting as Secretary of War, he said, he would have ignored the incident altogether. Gen. Schofield added that it was far from his purpose to do an unkind act to anyone on the eve of his retirement, but he was forced to do as he did in the present case. He did not purpose, however, to do anything further in the premises, leaving the case entirely in the hands of Secretary Lamont.

A Burglar Killed in Washington.

The man brought down was cornered in the bath room and received two bullets in the head. He was identified as John Woods, alias Puffer, a well known thief, who had served in the penitentiary. Dr. Stewart is 28 years old, a Washingtonian and a graduate of Leipsic.

HYPOCRITE, OH YE HYPOCRITE

Religion of Public Opinion. Read and Digest.

"For They Loved the Praise of Men More Than the Praise of God."—Taken From the Forty-third Verse of the Twelfth Chapter of St. John.

These words were spoken of certain individuals who refused to confess that Jesus was the Christ, because he was extremely unpopular with the scribes and Pharisees, and principal people of Jerusalem.

There is a plain distinction between self love, or the simple desire of happiness, and selfishness. Self love, the desire of happiness and dread of misery, is constitutional; it is a part of our frame as God made us, and as he intended us to be; and its indulgence within the limits of the law of God, is not sinful. Whenever it is indulged contrary to the law of God, it becomes sinful. When the desire of happiness or the dread of misery becomes the controlling principle, and we prefer our own gratification to some other greater interest, it becomes selfishness. When, to avoid pain or procure happiness, we sacrifice other greater interests, we violate the great law of disinterested benevolence; it is no longer self-love, acting within lawful bounds, but selfishness.

In my last Sunday morning lecture, I described a class of professors of religion, who are moved to perform religious exercises by hope and fear. They are moved sometimes by self-love, and sometimes by selfishness. Their supreme object is not to glorify God, but to secure their own salvation. You will recollect that this class, and the class I had described as the real friends of God and man, agree in many things, and if you look only at the things in which they agree, you cannot distinguish between them. It is only by a close observation of those things in which they differ, that you can see the main design of the latter class is not to glorify God, but to secure their own salvation. In that way we can see their supreme object developed, and see that when they do the same things, outwardly, which those do whose supreme object is to glorify God, they do so from entirely different motives, and consequently the acts themselves are, in the sight of God, of an entirely different character.

To-day, I design to point out the characteristics of the third class of professing Christians, who "love the praise of men more than the praise of God."

I would not be understood to imply that a mere regard for reputation has led this class to profess religion. Religion has always been too unpopular with the great mass of mankind to render it a general thing to become professing Christians from a mere regard to reputation. But I mean, that where it is not generally unpopular to become a professor of religion, and will not diminish popularity, but will increase it with many, a complex motive operates—the hope of securing happiness in a future world, and that it may increase reputation here. And thus many are led to profess religion, when after all, on a close examination, it will be seen that the leading object, which is prized beyond anything else, is the good opinion of their fellow men. Sooner than forfeit this utterly, they would not profess religion. Their profession turns on this. And although they do profess to be sincere Christians, you may see by their conduct, on close examination, that they will do nothing that will forfeit this good opinion of men. They will not encounter the odium that they must, if they were to give themselves up to root sin out of the heart.

Observe, that impatient sinners are always influenced by one of two things, in all that they do that appears like religion. Either they do it out of regard to mere natural principles as compassion or self-love—principles that are constitutional in them—or from selfishness. They are done either out of regard to their own reputation or happiness, or the gratification of some natural principle in them, that has no moral character; and not from the love of God in them. They "love the praise of men more than the praise of God."

I will now mention several things by which you may detect the true character of the class of persons of whom I
